

24 May 2010

Snowboard in Ulladulla

Celebrate winter in Ulladulla with a little snowboarding or make a snow man or woman. True, it doesn't often snow in Ulladulla, but the crafty people behind the Ulladulla Winter Festival have cornered the market on tonnes of crushed ice to make snow.

The snow will be used on the grounds of the Ulladulla Civic Centre to create the Ulladulla Winter Festival on Saturday 29 May 2010.

The festival will include snow boarding exhibitions, from 11am to 1pm, music, exhibitions, displays and much more.

Shoalhaven City Mayor Councillor Paul Green said the Council is proud to support great ideas to provide fun, enjoyment and laughter for many members of the community.

"What better way to enjoy the coming of winter with a little snowboarding and snowman building on the shores of the great Ulladulla harbour," Cllr Green said., "This will be great fun and there will be plenty of time to test your skills on the half pipe in the snow or just enjoy the harbour and then have a great coffee or lunch."

The event will be sponsored by Shoalhaven City Council, Bannisters Mollymook, and the Dunn Lewis Youth Development Foundation.

Local snowboarders, some of them with national titles to their names, will also be demonstrating their skills throughout the day.

There will also be giveaways and prizes on the day and is expected to attract some big-name snowboarders.

For further information contact Council's Community Services, Youth Development, on (02) 4429 3418.

CONTACT: Shoalhaven City Mayor Councillor Paul Green

(02) 4429 3251
0423 881 873