COMEDY IS STEAMING

Steaming is a revival of Nell Dunn's internationally acclaimed, unashamedly raunchy comedy.

Six women with different backgrounds, lives and personalities draw strength from their companionship found in their local Turkish baths.

Here, they can relax and just be themselves. When their little bit of pleasure – their place to laugh – their little oasis- is threatened with closure, they won't let it go without a fight

Val Lehman stars in Steaming, which contains nudity and a little coarse language. Mostly remembered for her brilliant portrayal of murderer and 'top dog' Bea Smith in the long-running TV drama series, Prisoner – a role that won her international recognition and three Logies.

The lead character Josie will be played by Alli Pope, who has been seen in many television series' including Neighbours, Blue Heelers and Janus.

The energetic and talented group of actors involved in Steaming relish their roles and embrace the positive messages within the play of friendship and camaraderie.

Steaming is gritty, irreverent, ribald, passionate, intimate and an uncompromising piece of theatre that will astonish audiences with its audacity, eccentricity and full frontal honesty.

Audiences will laugh and cry with these superbly crafted characters whose situations mirror the lives of so many women.

Steaming opens on Monday, 20th September for one night only!
