

You're invited to

Bushcare Information Day Millards Creek Corridor

Shoalhaven City Council is inviting the Ulladulla community to volunteer with a new Bushcare Group at Millards Creek!

Millards Creek acts as a green corridor through the heart of Ulladulla providing shelter, food and home for local wildlife and flora.

If you would like to learn more about the native plants and animals that call Millards Creek home, help improve biodiversity and meet new friends at the same time then come along to the open day.

The open day will be an opportunity to learn what the threats to the biodiversity of the Millards Creek corridor are and talk to local experts about the native plants and animals that live there.

A drop-in centre will be set up on the reserve on outside the Ulladulla Civic Centre where you can find out more about volunteering with the new Bushcare Group and join in a guided nature walk along Millards Creek.

Saturday 23 July 2016
1PM - 4PM

Ulladulla Civic Centre

The Bushcare tent will be set up on the northern side of the Civic Centre. Drop in for a cuppa and find out more about volunteering.

A guided nature walk 2pm - 3pm

Join us for a gentle walk along the shared pathway beside Millards Creek which will leave from the Ulladulla Civic Centre.
