

Expression of Interest – Committee Membership – Inclusion & Access Advisory Committee

Are you a family member, friend and/or carer of a person living with disability? Shoalhaven City Council is inviting interested community members to join the Inclusion and Access and Advisory Committee (IAAC). Council Advisory Committees provide advice on the development and implementation of Council's strategic priorities. They represent one of the many ways that community members can inform Council's decision-making.

The purpose of the IAAC is to provide advice and guidance to Shoalhaven City Council, its staff and residents on accessibility and inclusion.

Council invites community members wanting to submit an Expression of Interest to become a member of the committee.

The following positions are vacant:

- A maximum of two (2) family, friends and/or carers of people living with disability who have an interest in advocating for improved access and inclusion for all.

Note: Council encourages the appointment of two Indigenous representatives, male and female, on all Advisory Committees.
