ABOUT LUCY'S PROJECT

Lucy's Project is a national peak body working to improve access to supports for people and animals experiencing domestic and family violence. We undertake advocacy, provide training and resources, and facilitate collaboration to raise awareness of the intersection between animal abuse and domestic and family violence.

We are a volunteer organisation based in Lismore, New South Wales. Our membership is comprised of domestic and family violence services, animal services, government and non-government agencies, advocacy groups, vets, lawyers, academics, and community members who have a common vision of protecting the whole family.

We advocate for human and animal victim-survivors because we know that when an animal is at risk of abuse, there is a human at risk of abuse.

WHAT IS AWARE ARC?

AWARE ARC (Animal aWare, Animal Ready in DFV Emergency – creating Animal Ready Communities) is an online hub of resources for frontline services and people in crisis, region by region.

AWARE ARC creates and delivers training to frontline services to help equip communities to be ready to deal with domestic and family violence situations involving animals. AWARE ARC primarily focuses on filling the gaps in domestic and family violence resources for people and animals in rural, regional, and remote areas.

With funding from Women NSW, and collaboration with Women's Domestic Violence Court Advocacy Service (WDVCAS), AWARE ARC has created this directory of animal services and crisis support services in the Shoalhaven region. This directory is intended to act as a referral pathway to assist frontline workers in achieving the best possible outcome for their clients and the animals in their lives.

We are working towards creating a service for animals affected by domestic and family violence and abuse in every area of the country
